

Patrick Dey
Vice President, Data & Digital Innovation
Rockwell Automation

Patrick is a transformational digital and data leader with over 27 years of experience in information technology, business, and technology strategy, spanning the Big Four: biotechnology, consumer goods, pharma/healthcare and technology industries. He has a proven track record of outstanding leadership in digital and data initiatives, with significant expertise in enterprise technologies, supply chain management, and business transformations.

Most recently, Patrick served as a Senior Vice President and Chief Digital office at McKesson Corporation, the seventh-largest healthcare technology company. In this role, he fostered a digital DNA culture and led the development of a digital technology strategy to bolster their $270 billion business serving the US healthcare sector. Prior to McKesson Corporation, Patrick was Vice President of Digital Health and Innovation at Amgen Inc., where he advanced global data and digital strategies and delivered cross functional programs to enhance digital health capabilities. At Mattel, Inc., he supported global operations, supply chain and the design and development of initiatives to simplify global manufacturing and product development.

Patrick has been featured as an industry expert in major media publications, including The Market Intelligence (S&P Global), WIRED Magazine, and MIT Technology Review.