Vasudev Bhandarkar

Founder/CEO

ScoreData Corporation

Vasudev (Vas) Bhandarkar is a veteran of the enterprise software industry. He has co-founded and built several highly valued companies such as Selectica & Remedy, both of which enjoyed successful IPOs on the Nasdaq. He was a Board Member of outsourced product engineering company GlobalLogic, which saw a 30x increase in revenue during his tenure and was ultimately acquired by Hitachi for $9.6B.

For over a decade, Vas has also been an active angel investor in leading edge technology companies such as bitcoin and blockchain companies DMGGF (Blockseer) and MaicoIn (Coinbase of Taiwan), healthcare data exchange company Innovaccer, and 5G edge network software company Highway9Networks.

Currently the CEO of ScoreData, and before that the CEO of Unimobile, Vas is a strategic thinker envisioning breakthrough product lines linked to the realization of business objectives. He has recruited and led high-performance executive/professional teams and has in-depth operating experience building multi-disciplinary organizations from founding to IPO. Vas also built complex software teams and products at AT&T Bell Labs, Apple Computer and Hewlett-Packard Corporation.

He holds master's degrees in computer science from Colorado State University and physics from IIT-Bombay. He has pursued graduate studies and executive education in business, corporate governance, and finance at Santa Clara University and the Stanford Graduate School of Business.

Vas is an avid bicyclist, completing several 100-mile rides, as well as an avid hiker and prolific photographer. He has scaled several 14,000-foot mountains in continental North America, and recently climbed to the Everest Base Camp at the foot of the Khumbu Falls.
